INCREASED WAR BOND PURCHASES URGED

Marion Urged To Help as U. S. Falls Short of Quota.

Indications are that war bond sales in the United States will fall short of the national treasury quota for September by some 75 million dollars, according to a telegram received yesterday by E J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the Marion county war bond committee.

The only way that Marion county can help make up this deficit before the end of the month is for every one to do his utmost to buy bonds, the county chairman said.

He urged that business concerns and plants stress the importance of the payroll deduction plan of war savings, particularly 10 per cent deduction.

No figures are available yet as to whether Marion county reached its September goal of $293,800.

The telegram received yesterday from Harold H Bredlow, executive secretary of the Ohio war savings staff, stated that through Sept. 21 Series E sales amounted to $342 980,000, Series F and G, $157,075,000. Mr Bredlow's telegram was a copy of one he had received from R W Coyne, field director of the war savings staff.

ANOTHER DELAWARE ARMY FLIER KILLED

Sgt. Wilbur C. Harter Second Victim Within Week.

Second Delaware, O, man to meet death in army plane accidents this week was killed yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Phoenix, Ariz.

He was Wilbur C Harter, 24, son of Mrs. Mildred Harter of Delaware

Eight officers and men were killed in a collision of two AT-11 bomber trainers during a routine flight

Harter enlisted in the army air forces in May for bombardier training A graduate of Willis High school in Delaware, he was employed in the Delaware postoffice prior to his enlistment.

A sister, Ann, at home, survives with the mother.

On Tuesday Sgt. Richard K. Riddle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riddle of Delaware was killed when an army bomber crashed near Perham, Me.

Following official confirmation of Sergeant Riddle's death his uncle, Rossiter Kellogg, left for Maine to return the body to Delaware. The return trip was started yesterday.

SCOREBOARD IS GIVEN SCHOOLS

R. T. Lewis Donates Electric Device To Score Harding Stadium Games.

Donation of a new electric scoreboard to the Harding High School Athletic association by R. T. Lewis, Marion realtor, was announced today by Principal O. H P. Snyder of Harding

The new scoreboard is similar to ones used in many college and high school stadiums. Installation has been completed and several tests already have been made. It will be used for a regulation game for the first time tonight when Marion Harding meets Columbus West at 8.30 in Harding's 1942 inaugural.

It also will be used for the Marion St. Mary-Tiffin Calvert game in the stadium Saturday night.

Mr. Lewis announced to school officials recently his intentions to purchase a scoreboard for use in stadium games He said he had attended several games in both the Harding stadium and the Ohio State university stadium and had found the scoreboard in use in the vast Ohio Stadium a great aid to spectators in following the game.

9x15 Feet

The new scoreboard here measures nine feet high and 15 feet wide. It is built on a platform several feet above the ground. It has been erected near the south end of the football field in a spot clearly visible from any seat in the stadium or on the bleachers at the east side of the field.

The complete board consists of 10 portable electric figuregrams, each 11 by 17 inches, and one control panel, 27 by 19 inches.

Any number on any one of the 10 panels is instantly flashed on the board by operation of a single toggle switch on the control panel

The electrical units are portable and following each game will be removed to protect them from weather and possible vandalism.

Made in Marion

The board in which the electrical apparatus is arranged was designed by Levi Welch, custodian of buildings and grounds of the public school system, and built by John Beer, manual training instructor at Central Junior High school.

The face of the large board is painted black and trimmed in red Red electrical bulbs are used in each of the scoring panels.

Truck Ditched When Driver Falls Asleep

A truck driver escaped uninjured when he went to sleep and his truck ran into a ditch about 6:50 this morning on Route 30-S east of Marion, the state patrol reported.

The accident occurred at the "S" curve at the junction of Route 30-S and the Martel road The truck, owned by the Commercial Motor Freight Co., tore off a considerable section of wire fence.

The driver, Ernest D. Reed, 34, of near Elyria, escaped unhurt. Damage to the truck was estimated at $100.

County Scrap Drive Gets First Big Contributions

Marion-Reserve Power Co. To Dig Up Old Rails; Two Large Safes Donated; Other Industries Expected To Help Swell Community's "Victory Pile."

Developments came rapidly today in preparation for launching Marion's countywide scrap metal drive Monday

They included three large donations of scrap announced this morning by the Marion-Reserve Power Co, the county commissioners and The Marion Star, and further plans for a meeting of teachers in the county schools tonight at which campaign plans will be the principal theme Another development was the federal government's announcement that plaques and pennants would be awarded to counties and states making exceptional showings in salvage campaigns

One of the most unusual responses to the plea of war production officials to "get in the scrap" is under way at the terminal building of the Marion-Reserve Power Co on West Center street. Some 25 tons of scrap metal will result from the work and similar projects in Delaware and Stratford.

Tackle Difficult Job

Officials of the company, after turning in all the loose salvage material available, decided to take up the old rails on which interurban cars used to ride into the terminal The fact that the rails were almost completely encased in concrete didn't stop them.

A crew of workers in charge of Beryl D. Betz, a foreman, are using air hammers to break up the concrete and acetylene torches to burn out sections of the rail in this difficult salvage project.

When West Center street was repaved years ago, the rails were taken up, but those leading into the terminal were not disturbed. The project calls for removal of all rails from Center street back to the rear of the terminal

Other rails at the Stratford and Delaware terminals of the company will similarly be removed to form a scrap pile estimated at 25 tons.

A railroad-rail fence around the lawn at the terminal building will be torn up to add to the salvage pile.

Other Marion county industrial concerns are joining in the salvage campaign and large contributions of scrap metal are expected from that source.

Two Safes Donated

Other large donations announced today are safes given to the salvage drive by the county commissioners and The Star George Alber, who with Clyde C. Caldwell is co-chairman of the county salvage committee, said he had arranged with Wayne Bierce, welding instructor at Harding High school, to cut up the safes with torches Saturday and have them hauled to a junkyard

The county's safe is a massive one, estimated to weigh four tons and is so old that there seems to be no record of it having been placed in the building, the commissioners said. It formerly was in the sheriff's office, but recently was moved out into the hallway on the first floor of the courthouse. The commissioners said there was no need for it, and that they felt it would serve a better purpose as scrap metal.

The Star's safe is one that has been in use for years to store business office records. Although it had been in constant use, the safe was ordered salvaged during a checkup throughout the newspaper plant to locate all available scrap metal. It weighs about two tons.

Meeting Tonight

Further details of the county schools' campaign to round up scrap metal on Marion county farms will be outlined tonight at the meeting of county teachers in the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school. Superintendents and teachers who will direct the students' activities will check over their plans and hear talks by

More about scrap metal on Pages 2, 6 and 7.

Mrs. Richard H. Lawson, Marion woman who was at Pearl Harbor during the Dec. 7 attack, and by Clyde C. Caldwell, co-chairman of the county salvage committee.

The city schools' plans are rapidly taking shape, Supt E E Holt reported this morning. He said most of the city school students' activities will be concentrated in the second week of the drive, since covering the city is expected to take considerably less time than the county schools' task of canvassing the rural areas

County Officials Set for Service

Don't be surprised if, a couple of weeks from now, you see a county official dressed in overalls and driving a truck. It will be for the sake of the salvage drive

The county commissioners and their clerk, Walter S. Guthrie, in discussing the possible shortage of drivers for county trucks to be used in the rural phase of the campaign, declared that if necessary they will put on old clothes and drive a truck for a day or two to see that the job gets done

HARDING'S FIRST GAME TONIGHT

Running up the curtain on Marion's 1942 football season, the Harding High school Presidents will oppose a strong Columbus West team tonight at 8:30 in Harding stadium. Details of preparations for the game may be found on today's sport page.

St. Mary will open its season Saturday night against Tiffin Calvert in a game also set for 8:30 under the lights of Harding stadium.

Both Marion Harding and St. Mary are starting the season with new coaches.

Prizes Offered in Nationwide Scrap Campaign

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept 25—The newspaper-directed scrap drive went on a competitive basis today with the war production board offering plaques and pennants to states and counties producing the biggest victory stockpiles

The nationwide contest, WPB announced last night, will be won by the three states collecting the most scrap per capita and by the counties producing 100 pounds or more per capita.

WPB Chairman Donald M Nelson will award honorary plaques to the states winning first, second and third places and pennants to the big scrap-producing counties. The plaques, WPB's conservation division said, will be suitable for installation in state capitols and the pennants may be flown from county courthouses or from staffs beside the large county stockpiles.

Only scrap metal or rubber collected during the three-week newspaper drive will be counted in the final tabulation of the contest. WPS emphasized that only scrap weighed and delivered to the victory stockpiles, official salvage depots or scrap dealers' yards would be computed.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE WORKER KILLED IN BLACKOUT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25—Cuyahoga county's first blackout from boundary to boundary brought death to one civilian defense worker and caused the critical injury of another.

Donald Bradley, 22, was killed and George Kale, 21, was hurt seriously at suburban North Royalton last night as their motorcycles collided during the 10-minute blackout.

Marion Co. Man Denied Tire for Driving Over 40

Because he drove his car over 40 miles an hour and was stopped by the state patrol, an applicant for a new tire was turned down last night by the Marion county tire rationing board

It was the first refusal on grounds of speeding that the board has made, although it appeared today that refusals will be more frequent from now on.

The board announced that until further orders are received it will follow present tire rationing rules that any driver who has been cited by any law enforcement agent for driving over 40 miles an hour will be denied tires recapped or new, or tubes, for the duration

The applicant last night was the first whose name appears on a list of violators furnished the board by the state rationing board

The Marion board now has a list of about 25 Marion city and county drivers who have been either cited by the state patrol for driving over 40 miles an hour or arrested for traveling over 50.

The list includes arrests not only in Marion but in Cuyahoga county, Sandusky, southern Ohio and other sections of the state One Marion county driver has two citations against his name

Whenever the state patrol, or any other law enforcement agent cites or arrests a driver for speeding, the violator's name is filed The state patrol files its list with the state rationing board and local police and sheriff's officials file their names with the local board.

Coat Hangers Needed at Army Camp Near Here

Got any coat hangers around the house that you'd like to give to a soldier?

There's a need for about 1,500 of these handy household gadgets among the men of the 2nd Battalion, 333rd Engineers Regiment stationed east of Marion

The tent village residents like to keep their uniforms as neat as possible and hanging them on a nail on a rack isn't conducive to a snappy appearance, when they come into Marion.

Because the site is a busy one these days, visitors aren't encouraged, but Capt. Earle P Gray, adjutant in command, said this morning that anyone designated to bring out a large number of hangers would be admitted by displaying the contribution to the guard and asking to see Captain Gray.

Knox in Canal Zone To Inspect Defenses

By The Associated Press

BALBOA, C. Z., Sept. 25—Secretary of the Navy Knox began an inspection of the newly strengthened Panama Canal Zone defenses today after a swift flight down from the United States aboard a big naval seaplane.

Knox, who last visited this area [illegible] 1940, arrived yesterday afternoon at the Coco Solo naval base on the Atlantic side of the isthmus, where he was greeted by Lieut. Gen. Frank Andrews, Caribbean defense zone commander, and Rear Admiral Clifford Van Hook, commandant of the 15th naval district.

A short time later he took off for the Pacific side in General Andrews' plane, piloted by the general himself.

RUSSIANS TAKE TWO HEIGHTS IN HARD FIGHT

German Attempts at Infiltration Fail as Soviet Troops Counterattack.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Sept 25—Thrown on the defensive on Stalingrad's northwestern rim by the development of the Red army's flanking counterattack, the Germans were reported today to have failed in fresh infiltration attempts against the city while battling desperately against the menace from the flank

The epic battle centered like a consuming cyclone on the northwestern sector where the Russians had recaptured two dominating heights and nearby populated sections, according to today's Stalingrad dispatches.

(The German high command declared that its troops had taken "further fortified points in fierce street fighting" and, conceding the defensive nature of the fight on the flank, said "Soviet relief attacks against the northern barrier erected by German and allied troops were repulsed in hard fighting.")

The Russian army newspaper Red Star declared that no other city in this war had been such a battlefield as Stalingrad A military commentator quoted by Tass, official Russian news agency, said the Germans had lost more than 27,000 dead in the course of the last week

Tanks Cruise Streets

"And Stalingrad is not the fortress which Verdun was," he added,

Red Star said German tanks were cruising the streets and alleys of Stalingrad, seeking to fall unexpectedly upon the Russian positions and demoralize the men holding them.

Despite this infiltration, it was said, the Russians were countering successfully, with anti-tank guns and grenades, generally holding their ground One street running from the western edge of the city to the high cliffs along the Volga was attacked "scores of times" by German tank forces and tommy-gun shock troops—without avail.

A savage battle was indicated northwest of the city, where Russian planes, tanks, heavy artillery and foot troops have struck repeatedly into the Germans' left wing.

Field dispatches said Red army tank forces had captured two hills and, in one sector, killed 900 Germans.

"German attacks were repulsed," the noon communique said.

The reformed defenses within Stalingrad were menaced for a time by a Nazi attack which overran a group of houses, but "Soviet troops counterattacked and restored the situation," it was announced.

Russian street fighters were said to have killed more than 200 Germans and destroyed five tanks, seven anti-tank guns and four mortars in one of a series of engagements

"In another sector," the communique said, "our mortar crews destroyed 12 trucks with troops and ammunition, set fire to three tanks and wiped out a battalion of enemy infantry."

Civilians Help Soldiers

Civilians of Stalingrad were reported to have poured out of their cellars, caves in the Volga cliffs and factory shelters and helped the Red army maintain its 31-day-old defense in streets, lanes and squares.

Thousands had been withdrawn across the river, but others refused to leave.

Unbroken by incessant bombing and tremendous ground assaults, the Russians battled on from wrecked buildings, barricades and dugouts.

Red army staff officers charted an active defense which carried the battle of Stalingrad into its second month and, temporarily at least, menaced a powerful segment of the siege lines.

(The Berlin radio hedged again on a declaration by German military quarters Sept. 15 that the battle was in the "final phase." It broadcast a dispatch that the high command preferred a gradual, systematic advance in order to save men and "the fall of the city may thus be delayed for some time.")

The midnight communique referred to the drive northwest of Stalingrad as "active operations" during which Soviet troops advanced somewhat in some sectors. The exact area and extent of the penetrations were not specified.

Here's the How and Why of America's Scrap Job

Americans are glad to help any worthy effort so long as they understand the effort and know it's being conducted in a fair and efficient manner. That's the reason for the following questions and answers. It uses the most common questions about scrap collection and gives straightforward answers.

Q. Why should salvage material pass through the hands of junk dealers instead of going straight to war production factories?

A. Scrap must be properly sorted, graded, prepared and packed, and accumulated in lots large enough to ship efficiently, before it can be used by mills. Only the junk dealer has the experience and equipment to do this. Industrial plants using materials have always depended on him for this important processing.

Q. How can one be sure that the junk dealers won't hold the scrap to get higher prices?

A. The junk dealer cannot get higher prices by holding, since ceilings have been placed by the government on prices at which he can sell to consuming mills. A well-run junk yard will always have a certain amount of scrap on hand which is being prepared. It is also necessary to accumulate enough of each grade so that economical shipments can be made. An empty junk yard produces no scrap. Any dealer who hoards is subject to requisitioning by the government.

Q. Are there ceiling prices on all scrap and waste materials?

A. The government has fixed ceiling prices regulating sales to consuming mills by grades and classification for all important waste materials. There is no limitation on selling at prices below the ceilings. Ceilings have been established for iron and steel scrap, nonferrous metals, rubber scrap, burlap bags, rags, old manila rope, waste paper, etc.

Q. Why doesn't the government prescribe prices which junk dealers will pay for scrap?

A. There are too many factors involved to make this practical. The value of junk in a house or on a farm depends upon its condition and the cost of transporting it to market. Naturally, the price ceilings limit the amount which junk dealers can afford to pay.

Q. Why doesn't the government collect junk?

A. The government is collecting scrap scrap iron and rubber on farms where junk dealers are not normally available. In most places the collection problem does not warrant establishing a government operated system.

Q. Does the government want gifts of scrap materials?

A. The government prefers that gifts of scrap be made to local charities, service organizations or defense councils. If you wish to help the government with your scrap, sell it to a junk dealer and buy War Stamps or Bonds with the proceeds.

Q. Can anyone collect scrap?

A. The more people who collect, the better. No one has an exclusive right to collect. However, in order to avoid conflict and confusion all volunteer collections should be directed by the salvage committee of the local defense council, or, if a rural area, by the county department of agriculture war board.

Q. Why are so-called "automobile graveyards" permitted to exist when we need the scrap metals and rubber which abound in them?

A. Since cars are normally sold to graveyards for junking, it is desirable to keep auto graveyards in business as producers of scrap. The aim of the war production board is to keep this process moving, but to speed it up so that every graveyard will scrap each car it buys within 60 days.

Q. What is being done about abandoned trolley rails, bridges, etc.?

A. The bureau of industrial conservation has a special section whose aim is to encourage manufacturers, railroads, utilities, shipyards, mines, etc., to scrap all unused equipment and structures and to improve their salvage of scrap materials normally produced in manufacturing. Industrial committees, composed of local manufacturers, have been established in almost every important industrial area, including Marion county. One basic objective is to appoint in every manufacturing plant some one individual in charge of salvage and give him authority to act. Complete details will be furnished by the industrial salvage section of the bureau of industrial conservation.

Q. Are there any scrap materials that are not wanted for war production?

A. We must eliminate as much waste as possible. However, it is impractical to collect certain things and from place to place, and time to time, it is better not to burden transportation facilities with some waste products that can better be supplied by regions near consuming plants. The best criterion of whether to collect a given material is whether the local junk dealers can dispose of it. Following is a general list of vital salvage:

- Scrap iron and steel
- Scrap rubber.
- Nonferrous metals.
- Waste cooking fats.
- Old manila rope.
- Burlap.

Cong. Smith Offers Substitute For Anti-Inflation Bill in House Speech

Proposes 90-Day Stabilization Plan To Provide Time for More Study of Permanent Legislation.

Congressman F. C. Smith of Marion, in a speech on the floor of the house Wednesday, offered a substitute for the anti-inflation bill, proposing a 90-day stop-gap program which he says would "eliminate the curse of politics."

Taking exception to President Roosevelt's demand for action on price control legislation by Oct. 1, he declared the administration was to blame for the spiraling domestic economy and suggested that congress should take time to study a bill.

His proposed amendment failed to pass.

The text of his remarks follow:

"I am offering this amendment to avoid what can become a dangerous situation. Should the President veto this measure, which it appears he intends to do if it reaches his desk in its present form, and takes matters into his own hands as he told us he would if the congress did not pass the act he demanded of it—that would be a national disaster.

"This amendment which I am offering is simple and direct. It is interim legislation to last for a period of only 90 days. It proposes to stabilize all farm prices and all wages at their present levels.

"If this amendment should pass it would effectuate three vitally important objectives.

"First. It would give the President everything he could possibly have intended to include in his demand upon congress for legislation to check the rising cost of living, and for halting inflation.

"Second. It would preserve the constitutional prerogatives and powers of congress. This is so vital that it should take precedence over nearly all other considerations.

"Third. It would provide more time for the careful, thorough, and judicious study of the questions involved, which is needed in the writing of permanent legislation dealing with the disturbing problems of inflation.

"This interim legislation would be simple, direct, and specific. It would be free from vagaries and formulas and would require no lawyers to interpret its meaning. It would be safe for it would involve no risk of further complicating present conditions.

"If adopted, it would be simple, easy, and comparatively inexpensive to administer. It also would have the extraordinary merit of being as free from political and pressure group influences as any anti-inflation legislation that could be written.

"It would be as fair to agriculture and labor as any legislation we could possibly write under the strain and tension the congress is now laboring, the heated factionalism that has developed over questions related to the stabilizing of farm prices and wages, and the almost lack of available knowledge necessary to write a measure that would adequately satisfy the demand of the President.

"It would do as much to check rising prices as could possibly be expected from any direct price-control legislation.

"If this temporary legislation were enacted, it would show the people of this country that the congress is willing to assume the responsibilities and duties the Constitution imposes upon it.

"Of course, there would be uncertainties and inequities under such legislation as here suggested. But would these likely be as great as the ones that will almost certainly result from the legislation now before the house, which has had little or no consideration, and which is loaded with elements that are subject to all sorts of political influences and pressures? Such inequities and uncertainties as would appear could be corrected in the permanent legislation.

"No one knows how near upon us uncontrollable inflation may be. The President thinks the threat of wild inflation is already present. He has so stated. This is a dangerous situation, one that requires strong action. Should this pernicious disease overtake our nation, not only must every class and group suffer great hardship, loss of their [illegible] the value of their insurance policies, annuities, and so forth, but it will definitely imperil our war effort and can cause us to lose the war.

"Mr. Chairman, the hour may be critical. The President has been given vast powers. Up to the present time he has secured, certainly for the most part, through legislation enacted by the congress the powers he needs. If the President should veto this bill and assume the power he has demanded congress give him, it will be the first time that he or any other president arbitrarily assumed such extraordinary authority.

"I am now providing by this amendment a fair, forthright, safe and reasonable way to meet all the demands of the President, preserve the constitutional powers of the congress, and avoid a possible national disaster.

"I hope the amendment is adopted."

INDUSTRY WARNED TO REPLACE MEN

Hershey Threatens Action To Discipline Plants.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25—War industries face the choice of speeding the replacement of workers temporarily deferred from the draft or getting along without them, warns Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

Asserting war plants have not made sufficient efforts to replace employes granted temporary deferments, the national selective service directors last night threatened to "take men from them as a disciplinary measure, even if it means some sacrifice in production."

"If a man can be taught in eight months to fly the intricate mechanism that is an army bomber, don't try to tell the draft boards any longer that it takes a year to replace a certain worker," he told a public meeting.

School children will be compelled to work three or four hours a day, housewives must fill business and industrial jobs and even the aged may be needed before the war is won, Gen. Hershey said.

"We cannot think the present untapped labor sources will remain untapped," he added.

UNEMPLOYMENT CLAIMS HIGHER IN THIS AREA

Increase of 9.6 Per Cent in August; State Shows Decrease.

Fifty-seven new claims were filed for unemployment compensation benefits last month in the Marion area, which includes Marion, Harding and Wyandot counties, an increase of 9.6 per cent over July, according to Fred B. Scherff, bureau of unemployment compensation deputy and manager of the Marion employment security center.

In the state the number of new claims dropped to 11,331 from 16,151 in July, a decrease of 30 per cent.

Benefits in this area totaled $4,641.78 during August, as compared with $4,126.03 in the preceding month. Benefit payments in the state dropped more than nine per cent, from $1,099,102 to $992,764.

Mr. Scherff said State Administrator Herschel C. Atkinson attributed the statewide drop to the reduction in the number of workers unemployed as a result of conversion of industry to war production and to steady demand for additional workers in war plants.

In this area, the average number of persons receiving weekly benefits last month was 94, and the payments averaged $10.70, as compared with the state averages of $12.52.

Poll Shows Nation Favors Price-Wage Control As Deadline Draws Near

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 25—Congress can put price-wage control legislation on President Roosevelt's desk on or before Oct. 1, with the sure knowledge that such legislation meets with the overwhelming approval of the American public.

In fact, congress and the President, in devoting themselves to such a program at the present time are merely catching up to where public opinion was one year ago this month.

If the issue of price-wage curbs were put to the sixty million eligible voters of the nation in a plebiscite this week while congress debates, the results judging by the latest Institute study of opinions, would show approximately 43,000,000 votes in favor of such control, 7,000,000 votes opposed, with the remainder either not voting or giving qualified opinions.

Pres. Roosevelt

On a percentage basis, this works out as follows:

71% in favor of price-wage control

11% opposed

12% qualified

6% undecided

The group with qualified opinions is made up of persons who favor price control but not wage control, and vice versa.

This type of economic regulation has been widely discussed for more than a year, especially since Nov. 1941, when Canada put a price-wage control program into effect.

The record shows that even before that date—in fact, two months before—the majority of American voters were ready to see price-wage curbs adopted in the United States.

The majority in favor was 62 per cent in Sept., 1941, with 32 per cent opposed and 6 per cent undecided. Subsequent Institute tests showed the vote in favor rising to 66 per cent by the spring of this year.

Recent interviewing among farmers in the middle west, whose crop prices would come under the regulations requested by the President, showed 71 per cent in favor of price-wage control.

Equally high majorities were found in big city areas, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and Los Angeles each voting for price-wage regulation by 73 per cent or better.

A Promise for Tomorrow

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

CHAPTER EIGHT

To The Hospital

JULIE scarcely had time to think of Dawn's strange request again all day. Driven by a relentless schedule of appointments, she put the tangle of thoughts into the back of her mind, concentrated on doing her job at hand thoroughly and well.

"Have a good day, Julie?" Dr. Tom asked her as they met for the first time that day at the dinner table.

She nodded. "Hard, but everything went smoothly. Did you?"

"Old Kelland's got me baffled. He's practically recovered complete muscular control but his mind doesn't clear accordingly." He buttered one of Hulda's golden biscuits, ate it in one bite.

"Usually takes time, doesn't it?"

"Not this much time. At any rate, he can talk rationally enough about ordinary topics. When you mention Dawn he goes off on a tangent."

Julie put down her fork. "What do you mean, Dad?"

"He seems obsessed by the idea that Dawn's in some great danger." Her father shook his head helplessly. "Even when she's right in the room with him, he can't seem to get it off is mind."

"Anything to do with pressure of war strain?" Julie suggested.

"Indirectly, maybe. But Kelland's under no pressure and Dawn's in no greater danger than anyone else on the Pacific Coast."

"True. Still, being ill, probably Mr. Kelland distorts the facts and—"

"Funny thing is, Dawn sort of agrees with him. I think the girl is pretty badly scared."

Julie recalled the conversation of this morning, smiled thoughtfully. "She's afraid for Pete, too."

"Young Fowler?" Dr. Tom looked up, another biscuit poised in mid-air.

"She wants him to go to the new yards at Riverport."

"What for?"

"Be out of danger there."

Dr. Tom snorted. "What makes her think the yards up there are any safer?"

"I don't know. She just urged me to persuade him to go."

"Did you?"

Julie shook her head. "No. I haven't seen him today, but if I had, I think I'd have known better than to try to tell him what to do."

Helpless

"Right!" His hearty laugh rolled up from deep inside his big body. "Young Pete's the kind who'll make his own decisions, if I'm any judge. However, you may be interested to know, he's gone already."

"Gone! To Riverport?"

"He called in to cancel an appointment for a treatment this afternoon, Miss Dalton said. Told her he was leaving town."

"Well—" Around a strange tightening in her throat, Julie tried to say lightly, "Dawn should be satisfied now."

So it hadn't been because Dawn believed in her influence with Pete that she had summoned Julie. It had rather been a sly way of proving that her own hold on him was complete. Julie ate the rest of her dinner automatically. Dawn—always feline—had simply wanted to know whether or not Julie would put up a fight for Pete.

From now no it was to be Dawn and Pete. The thought stung like the scalding coffee she tasted. Dawn wouldn't be good for Pete. She told herself, trying to pretend hers was only professional interest. And knowing perfectly that there was nothing professional about the aching emptiness inside. Dawn would sympathize with Pete, encourage him to self-pity, torment his pride with false goals. If he really lover her, she could ruin him. And she would if it suited her mood. Julie knew Dawn well enough for that.

And there was nothing she could do to prevent it. Even the best, the closest of old friends hadn't the right to touch a man's decision in love. Not the right, nor the power to affect the decision in any way, probably, [illegible] to make it stronger. [illegible] Pete roar if Julie should [illegible] that Dawn made a [illegible] him, encouraged him to [illegible] coward of himself. [illegible] true. Pete, for all his [illegible] strength, his keen, [illegible] termination, had [illegible] that made him [illegible] affections were [illegible]

[illegible] in weeks. Even a good detective story couldn't hold her attention. Finally she flung it aside.

"I think I'll go for a walk, Dad," and pulled on a sweater as she went.

Fire In The Shipyard

The wind that had been nagging at loose window catches all evening, snatched at her rudely as she stepped out onto the porch. A sharp wind from the ocean, she noticed as she pulled her sweater close, walked cross-lots and up the hill. Dark clouds scudded swiftly, driven by the wind into deep black ceiling overhead. The ocean would be beautiful tonight, Julie thought; imagined she could hear the glorious thunder of the surf. She loved a strong wind, liked to push against it, challenge it.

Hair streaming away from her face, cheeks tingling, she scrambled to the crest of the low foothill, turned her back to the boisterous wind while she looked down on Santa Felice below her. Beyond that to the deep fringe of lights spread like a spangled border along the quiet black waters of the Bay.

As she looked, she heard the shrill scream of a siren. She left the walk, ran out onto a narrow point. This time she saw the burst of flame far below her.

Julie turned then, raced back down the hill, pursued by the horrors her own imagination pictured. All those men—those inflammable materials! And this wind to whip flames out of control, into an inferno!

She raced across the lawn, up the steps, flung open the door.

"Dad! Fire in the shipyards!"

Hulda met her in the hall. "He is yust gone. The telephone rings yust as you are gone. He says to go straight to the hospital. Vait there for him."

Julie nodded, caught up her bag, a heavy coat. Only moments later, she was pushing quickly through traffic already gathering down town.

Under the well-disciplined order of the hospital, excitement ran only as an under-current. But Julie felt it as she stepped into the room. The first ambulances loaded with casualties had delivered their painfully burned charges. Some of them had had first-aid treatment. Others hadn't. As Julie washed her hands, slipped a sterile uniform over her head, she heard an injured workman saying.

"Don't know how it started. Things just started blowing up all around us. We just ducked and beat it."

"Might a been them welders up on the—"

"Twasn't though," another voice, tight with pain. "The first flashes come from the hold. Only a couple of bosses down there. Some electricians. I seen 'em go."

Julie lost the rest. But she'd heard enough to remind her of Dawn's strange insistence that Pete get away. How could she have known that this was going to happen, Julie demanded. Then scoffed at her own foolishness. She couldn't have known, of course. But never had there been so lucky a coincidence for Pete. It might easily have been he down in the hold of that half-finished ship!

Rent Questions Answered

Following is one of a series of questions and answers on rent control regulations affecting hotels and rooming houses released by John K. Britton area rent director. It follows a landlord-tenant series and was compiled to give residents of the Marion county rent control area the complete picture of rent control in this county-wide area.

* * *

Q. How is a hotel defined in this regulation?

A. A hotel means "any establishment generally recognized as such in its community, containing more than 50 rooms and used predominantly for transient occupancy."

* * *

Q. How is a rooming house defined in this regulation?

A. The term rooming house carries its customary meaning. In addition, the regulation says it is a "building or portion of a building other than a hotel in which a furnished room or rooms not constituting an apartment are rented on a short-term basis of daily, weekly or monthly occupancy to more than two paying tenants not members of the landlord's immediate family." It would include an apartment or other private residence in which rooms were rented to more than two tenants not members of the landlord's immediate family.

* * *

Q. Does this regulation cover other kinds of living quarters?

A. Yes. This regulation covers boarding houses, dormitories, auto camps, trailer residences, tourist homes or cabins, and all establishments of a similar nature.

* * *

Q. What about the ground rented to people to put their trailers on? Is this under rent control?

A. Yes. This regulation covers ground rented as space for a trailer.

* * *

Q. Are rooms in hospitals subject to control in this regulation?

A. No. This regulation excludes "rooms in hospitals, or rooms of a similar nature in charitable institutions used in carrying out their charitable or educational purposes."

* * *

Q. Are rooms in farm houses under federal rent control?

A. If the tenant of the room spends a substantial portion of his time working on the farm, the room is not under rent control. But if the tenant is otherwise employed, then the rent for the room is controlled.

* * *

Q. Are rooms occupied by servants or caretakers under control?

A. No. The regulation excludes "Rooms occupied by domestic servants, caretakers, managers, or other employes to whom the rooms are provided as part of their compensation, and who are employed for the purpose of rendering services in connection with the premises of which the rooms are a part."

STATE DISTRIBUTES AUTO LICENSE FUNDS

Marion County and Nearby Communities Receive Shares.

Marion city and county and other cities and counties adjoining will share in the statewide distribution of $2,172,102 of automobile license revenues plus distribution of $880,000 of the tag equalization fund, announced today by Hal G. Sours, director, Ohio Department of Highways. The $2,172,102 marks the third distribution of the 1942 tag income and represents about 85 per cent of the total of 72 per cent which is to be distributed this year. Of the 72 per cent to be distributed, 47 per cent goes to the county and 25 per cent to the district of registration. The distribution of the $880,000 of the tag equalization fund amounts to $10,000 to each county. This is the first time in 1942 that the 5 per cent equalization fund has been divided.

Checks are to be mailed this week to the several counties and other subdivisions, according to Cylon W. Wallace, registrar of motor vehicles in the department of highways. The distribution by counties and subdivisions follows:

OVER 4,000 AT STORE OPENING

Many Customers and Visitors Are Attracted to Albers Super-Market.

More than 4,000 persons were in the new Albers Super market at 225 East Center street from the opening at noon yesterday until closing time last night, V. E. Sanquist, manager, said today.

An average of 300 customers and 150 persons interested in seeing the new market passed through the store every hour over more than a nine-hour period.

The market, with a floor space of 90 by 126 feet, is done in the Albers colors green and cream, and wherever possible, particularly in the produce and canned goods sections, the stock is arranged to emphasize the color scheme.

Table space totals 588 feet, and there are 200 feet of shelving. The produce department covers 120 feet, the meat department 50 feet and the dairy department 30 feet.

Service Plans

The store offers both regular and self-serve service to patrons in all departments, including the meat section, which has an open refrigerator case where purchasers may select packaged meat, marked with the weight and price. There is a separate frosted foods department.

In addition to more than 2,200 grocery items, there are 125 varieties of products offered in the dairy section. In the produce department at the left of the entrance, mirrors reflect the entire space.

At the front of the store are the breads and crackers following are baby foods and buffet items, back of them are the fruits, fruit juices and vegetables and at the rear are flour, sugar, feed, dog foods and beverages. The meat department is at the rear of the left side and the produce department is at the front on the left. On the right side are various canned goods items including relishes and specials, fish and fancy goods.

Nutrition Charts

For the asking patrons can get a nutrition chart telling the proper diet for persons engaged in various types of work.

The large stock room is at the rear of the building.

The store has a "carry out" service for patrons who drive automobiles and also has a parking lot which will accommodate 75 cars. One-hour free parking is provided for customers in the parking lot, which extends from 111 Vine street to the alley at the east side of the building.

The manager, Mr. Sanquist, was transferred to Marion from the Albers store in Delaware, O.

Marion Student Wins Scholarship at Denison

Robert McGinnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. McGinnis of 767 East Center street, has been awarded a scholarship at Denison university, Granville, O., according to the news bureau of the University. The award was in recognition of the high standing in scholarship at St. Mary High school in Marion from which he was graduated in June. He was president of the senior class and was a letter man in football and captain of the basketball team. He registered at Denison Sept. 11 in the pre-medics course.

House Price Bill Will Raise Food Cost 12 Per Cent

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Agriculture department economists estimate that the parity price formula proposed in the house version of the anti-inflation legislation would increase present parity prices about 12 per cent.

The office of price administration says the house parity price would boost the cost of living between $3,000,000,000 and $3,500,000,000 a year.

The administration has expressed opposition to proposals for changing the present method of computing parity prices.

Here is a table showing present parity prices for major farm products, unofficial estimates of the house parity prices, and average prices received by farmers on Aug. 15 (the latest official figures available):

Commodity	Present Parity	House Parity	Actual Prices
Wheat (bu)	$ 1.34	$ 1.50	$ .95
Corn (bu)	$ .97	$ 1.09	$ .83
Oats (bu)	$ .60	$ .67	$ .42
Cotton (100 lb)	$18.85	$21.11	$18.03
Potatoes (bu)	$ 1.08	$ 1.21	$ 1.15
Apples (bu)	$ 1.46	$ 1.73	$ 1.16
Hogs (100 lb)	$11.05	$12.37	$14.13
Beef Cattle (100 lb)	$ 8.24	$ 9.27	$11.30

Under terms of both the house and senate versions of the anti-inflation legislation, ceilings could not be placed on farm products except at the higher of these two levels: (1) the parity price, or (2) the highest price reached by a product between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942, (adjusted for seasonal variations).

Hence, ceilings of meat animals, for example, would be considerably in excess of either the present parity or the house formula for determining parity.

DEMOCRATIC RIFT SEEN IN COLUMBUS

[illegible] Leader Withdraws Support from McSweeney.

By The Associated Press

[illegible], O., Sept. 25 — A [illegible] solidarity was [illegible] as party members [illegible] their state convention [illegible] Joseph M. Sullivan of [illegible] central committeeman [illegible] 7th district, announced withdrawal of his support [illegible] McSweeney, the [illegible] candidate.

[illegible] a letter to McSweeney [illegible] objected to what he [illegible] things over in the state to Jimmie [illegible] and to alleged efforts [illegible] Chairman Darrell [illegible] keep former National Chairman James Farley off the program of the post[illegible] convention here next week.

He said the fact that former [illegible] William G. Pickerel [illegible] active in behalf of [illegible] indicated that former [illegible] was to control [illegible] in that section [illegible].

With respect to Farley he said [illegible] heard Chairman [illegible] Oscar Ewing in Washington that he would see to it that the former national chairman would not speak at the post[illegible] convention.

"[illegible] it seems is Roosevelt's right hand man in Washington," Sullivan said. "Jim Farley without doubt is the country's smartest politician and Roosevelt would have done well to have kept him in an advisory capacity."

U. S. Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming will keynote the Democratic state platform convention and the party's gubernatorial candidate, former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster, is expected to outline campaign issues.

The platform, to be drawn by a resolution committee, is expected to indorse President Roosevelt's war and domestic policies. It will be presented for adoption at tomorrow's concluding session.

The Federated Democratic Women of Ohio, in annual meeting yesterday, indorsed Secretary of State John E. Sweeney's request for a special session of the legislature to make state election laws conform to the federal soldiers' voting statute.

Gov. Bricker, in declining Sweeney's request earlier in the week, asserted that Ohio law gave men in the armed services the United States an opportunity to vote.

Stalingrad: Worse Than Madrid

THE Germans, while practicing war at the expense of the Spaniards, had an opportunity to experiment with siege tactics against Madrid. They learned that artillery and demolition bombs had to be accompanied by relentless land action. Madrid survived shells and bombs for two years, four months and 21 days and finally capitulated because of a supply shortage. Land fighting never got closer to the city proper than the suburbs, where battle lines finally were stabilized.

The Germans are not making that mistake again. They are paying the heavy price the defenders demand for the surrender of Stalingrad, street by street. There is no present reason to believe they can be stopped as long as they continue willing to pay. Meanwhile, the emotionalists who make much of the Russians' courageous defense may wonder whether it is also courage that motivates the Germans attack, which is being called the costliest of all Nazi assaults yet.

Farm Wages Aren't Hay

BEFORE taking another swift kick at farmers because the newest wrinkle in congressional arguments over the farm price and wage stabilization bill is to take farm wages into account, the kicker will consider these figures:

In 1909-14, the parity period for farm prices, the national average rate for farm labor was $1.16 a day with board. In 1934 the average rate was 98 cents. In 1938 it had risen to $1.31. A year ago it was $1.88 and now it is more than $2.16—if the farmer can find anybody willing to work at any price. Certainly a government that says a wage earner is entitled to a raise if his cost of living goes up shouldn't complain too bitterly when farmers suggest that the rising cost of farm labor can't be shrugged off in figuring their share.

Rebuttal to Dirty Politics

THE declaration of policies and principles adopted by Republican members of the house is a rebuttal to the opposition's dirty politics in the current campaign. It disposes of the weasel claim that Democrats somehow have become the only patriots of this country, no others need apply.

Winning the war is not a party responsibility. It is a job for everybody, and nothing could be further from fact than the underhanded charge that it should be turned over only to men who never believed it could be averted. Isolation proved to be a fallacy, no argument about that, but nothing could be more vicious than the New Deal line calling for blanket execution of the political careers of everybody who ever believed in it. This is more of the exclusive point of view that in the past barred from party favor Democrats who failed to be for Roosevelt before Chicago and led to the abortive purge in the congressional elections of 1938.

In any event, Republicans have spiked the political smear that there is something wrong with their patriotism because they aren't running as Democrats. They believe in vigorous, efficient prosecution of the war, until there has been complete victory. They do not believe in mixing the prosecution of the war with secondary objectives, such as continuations of the attempt to set up the New Deal as the only possible means of political salvation in the United States. And they still believe in the customary American way of doing things. It takes the declaration a long time and 10 points to say it, but that's the general idea.

Education's War Babies

ONE OR TWO changes for the better may be taking shape in education as the result of the war. To the surprise of everybody concerned, for instance, students who kept on studying through the summer have survived. Another surprise is in store when there has been time to prove that a student can telescope a four-year course into three years or less with a minimum of inconvenience. It promises to be most helpful to educators to make them ask themselves honestly what justification there is now or ever has been for long vacations and time limits that interfere with the job to be done—which is to educate the young.

There is no reason why teachers should be away from their jobs during the summer. There is no reason why pupils shouldn't work at the business of becoming educated 11 or 12 months a year, instead of only nine. There is no reason why college students should take four years to complete their work; and there is no reason why public school students should take three times that long. Exigencies of war have challenged these practices, and it will be surprising if the considerations of the peace that will follow the war don't force some revisions of educational practices that suddenly seem absurd when there is so much to do and such a little time to do it.

News Behind the News

Labor Draft Not Only Solution Considered for Manpower Problem.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Manpower Mobilizer Paul McNutt is trying to drum up sentiment in congress for legislation empowering him to start a labor draft.

The way he is doing it indicates his drum-beating is designed primarily to sound out public sentiment. The rest of the administration, including the White House, is keeping quiet to see how he comes out.

His initial ventures suggest congress is not ready yet to take such a revolutionary way of solving the labor problem.

A daring bill has been proposed by Senator Lister Hill. But Mr. Hill concedes his bill would just about go the rest of the way toward establishing a totalitarian state.

That is just what makes the idea abhorrent to most congressmen. They cannot see the sense of embracing what we are so ardently warring against.

The notion is beginning to break upon them that this nation has been too much influenced by Hitler's methods. Subconsciously, in the past, our statesmen have grasped the totalitarian way of cracking down on all problems with arbitrary federal power, as if that was the only efficient way of doing things.

It is beginning to dawn on them that perhaps they can get better efficiency, more hearty cooperation and glad sacrifices from the people, if they try to meet our problems in as much of a democratic way as possible.

Therefore it looks like Mr. McNutt is running into a stone wall on his labor draft, and that another way will be found.

Congress Ready To Act

Congress is certainly ripe to act on the problem, which is not being over-estimated by McNutt. Stories fill the cloakrooms of both houses. Twenty different boards are dealing now with manpower, and without the slightest evidence of success.

Senator Thomas cannot get help to run his Idaho irrigated farm, and his manager is threatening to quit.

Senator Bankhead has heard from Anderson and Clayton, biggest cotton brokers, that the southern labor problem will bring a crop of poor quality this year, although wages are four and five times normal.

One hundred farms in a single county in Ohio are reported by congressmen of that state to be idle, because of labor shortage.

The army and navy have discovered such labor pirating in industry as to bestir them to demand action.

One western manufacturer requested 20 steamfitters to help him fulfill his army contract, claiming he had no one. The army got some steamfitters for him, transported them to the plant, and there found the manufacturer had 40 steamfitters hidden away in the basement playing cards each day for pay. He could not work them because he had no materials.

So the problem is pressing, but the only question is whether the McNutt totalitarian method, uprooting men wholesale from jobs they can do and transplanting them into jobs they cannot do, is the way to meet it.

Proposed Solution

Characteristics of the problem are easily distinguished if you will stand back and look at them. Our objectives are two: first, to raise an efficient army of sufficient strength to win (the military must decide that), and, secondly, to maintain production and civilian life just as efficiently and fully as possible.

Wholesale, haphazard drafting of men will not accomplish either objective. Extreme steps, such as McNutt and General Hershey have been talking about are more apt to stir internal resentment, promote civilian chaos.

Best solution I have heard comes from an authority in the government.

As this is an industrial, labor and farm problem, why not have it handled by industry, labor and farm men who have had some experience with it. Why not create a board of the best available industrialists, labor leaders and farmers and let them try democratic management.

McNutt's bureau is not a logical one to handle this problem anyway.

For administration he has social security directors in the various areas, most of whom were drawn from social welfare groups, many of whom are women without experience in industrial labor or farm labor problems. His bureau deals with social security and health, neither of which is even remotely related to the pressing matter at hand.

If a common-sense businesslike management of the problem is proposed, congress will readily agree. If pressure continues for the Hitler solution, there will be dangerous delay.

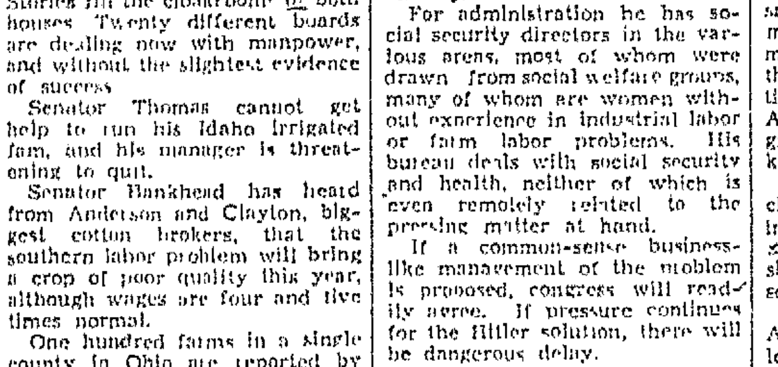
Facts on Meat Rationing



Wide World Features

Yesterday Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced that beginning Oct. 1 civilian meat consumption the last three months of this year will be restricted to approximately 79 per cent of the amount delivered by packers during the last quarter of 1941. At the same time he requested that citizens voluntarily limit themselves to 2½ pounds of meat a week per person in order to assure a fair sharing of available supplies. Thus will be affected the eating habits of the 130,000,000 men, women and children in the United States. The chart above, based on per capita consumption, gives the why, how and where of curtailment.

Basic Issue of All Wars

By Cleveland Lane.

KARL MARX, political philosopher, who has had great political influence on this age, made one great blunder. He based his entire theory on the erroneous assumption that men fight only for bread.

On the contrary, from the beginning of time men have fought about only one thing—freedom—either trying to take it away, or regain, or increase it.

Freedom, or liberty, is the basic political desire of all men. It is the cause for which men will kill, die or starve. Freedom is so basic in human desires that any political practice or effort opposed to it is bound to fail, usually violently.

Most people, especially Americans who enjoy the highest degree of freedom in the world, fail to understand freedom, liberty and independence as political concepts, as something to keep uppermost in their minds when they vote, even though these political concepts are the most perfectly and carefully evolved ones known.

The political doctrine of liberty extends back to earliest times. The ebb and flow of human history consists of attempts at oppression and their inevitable overthrow, resulting in emergence of a greater or lesser degree of freedom.

WRITING and thinking on the subject of freedom reached greatest volume and growth in France in the decades just previous to the founding of the republics of the United States and France.

Political thinkers have found it difficult to define freedom, liberty or independence except in terms of themselves.

Freedom is a relative condition. Thus, the freedoms the English barons extracted from King John in the Magna Carta were the greatest won up to that time by northern Europeans, but they were not nearly as liberal as those established for us through the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

American politicos are given to declaiming that ours is the most perfect system of government ever evolved. The system may not yet be perfect, but it is the most correct, for this reason:

It is the only system based on the axiom that man's greatest political desire is to be free and independent. No other government in the world has been grounded so firmly, so completely, so unreservedly on that axiom.

No form of government is more completely opposed to this axiom than totalitarian dictatorship, exemplified by modern Germany, Italy and Japan. Even if their present attempts at world domination were to succeed, they still are doomed to failure.

America now is undergoing tremendous upheavals, vast economic changes, shaking each of us and our nation to the roots. These throw terrific strain on our political life—powerful enough to change it completely.

If any of these changes be permitted to go against the grain of basic liberty, it must inevitably be overthrown later.

ECONOMIC changes are purely mechanical changes in society. They deal only with things—the tools and possessions of people, not people themselves. It does not follow, for example, that to have more efficient transportation systems, personal liberty and freedom must be curtailed or expanded.

Germany builds efficiently through oppression, regulation and regimentation. The falseness—the impracticability—of that "efficiency" already is apparent.

America, too, is building greater efficiency—beautiful and desirable efficiency. But if this encroaches in any way upon the inborn, basic American desire for liberty and independence, it too will fail.

If America is to build a better world on the ruins of this war, it must be based on the political axiom of liberty, or, despite whatever material wealth and advancement may be achieved, it will be a failure.

Importance of Scrap

Every Ton of It Saves Four Tons' Handling at Mills.

VIRTUALLY every piece of war equipment — from the small pistol cartridge to the mighty 40,000-ton battleship—is metal. Metal is the backbone of the nation's entire war production structure and that's why America's steel industry, the greatest in the world, must be kept roaring at full blast.

America has the mills, the machinery, the men and the all important know-how of making steel but America is running short of a vital ingredient—metal scrap.

To put it more precisely, the American people will have to collect 17,000,000 tons of scrap metal by the end of the year to keep their steel mills humming at capacity levels.

Held In Reserve

Think of Marion's scrap salvage piles to be formed at city and county schools next week as being the mills' yards. This is actually the fact, for scrap collected and stored in Marion county is to all intents and purposes part of the mills' inventory.

To operate at capacity, the steel mills must know exactly where their scrap is coming from for production six and more months hence. This explains why scrap must be poured into the salvage banks now, even though there may be considerable lag between the time it reaches the salvage depot, and is sorted and processed and the time it is shipped off to the mills.

The need for scrap in the manufacture of steel is far greater now than in peacetime. One ton of finished steel can be made from a ton of pig iron or from a ton of scrap or from a ton composed in part of pig iron and part scrap, however, the easier.

Scrap Cuts Process

This is true because to smelt one ton of pig iron requires two tons of iron ore, 1.2 tons of coal and a half ton of limestone—nearly four tons to be mined, processed, shipped. To get a ton of scrap, however, requires a ton of scrap.

In peacetime manufacturing, it was general steel company practice to make steel of 50 per cent pig iron and 50 per cent scrap.

To turn out America's 90,000,000 ton annual steel capacity on this 50-50 basis would take 45,000,000 tons of pig iron. To get this amount of pig iron requires 90,000,000 tons of iron ore, 54,000,000 tons of coal and 22,500,000 tons of limestone.

Two Tons Per Man

With the war's strain on the nation's manpower, there just aren't enough facilities to mine and transport these huge tonnages today. So four times as many million tons of scrap were used in America's steel mills in June 1942 as were used in June 1938.

You can begin to get an idea of how staggering America's steel needs are by remembering that every U. S. soldier requires 4,000 pounds of steel in carried or supporting equipment. In the first Word war he needed but 90 pounds.

Such is the need for steel. It is equally great for other metals. Some of the most lucrative "mines" in the world for these critically needed metals are the attics and cellars, barns and garages, fields and factories of Marion county.

Two hundred children at Epworth M. E. church, 140 at First Presbyterian church, and 55 at the Church of the Brethren, took part in promotion day exercises.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Monday, Sept. 25, 1922.

News dispatch from Washington reported that President Harding would follow a hands-off policy in the forthcoming congressional campaign. It was pointed out that he had turned down many requests for speaking engagements in various parts of the country in behalf of the candidates of his own political liking.

Henry Ford, according to a news report from Detroit, reached the high mark of his financial career up to that time by amassing profits totalling 75 million dollars for the calendar year of 1921.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Cleland of Galion at the home of Mrs. Cleland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Gregg of Delaware avenue.

Dr. Jesse Swank of Epworth M. E. church spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Crestline Kiwanis club.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Raffensperger left on a vacation trip to Washington, Philadelphia and other points in the east.

Miss Ruth Kramer, who was to leave soon for Chicago to enter the Presbyterian hospital for a course in nursing, was given a farewell dinner at the Colonial inn, by instructors at the Oak street school who had been associated with her when she taught there two years before.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns Perfect were given a birthday surprise party at their home on South Vine steet, by members of the Amici club. Both their birthdays came within a week's time.

Rug Cutting

By DAMON RUNYON

National Pastime Hits New Peak in Mr. Abe Aronson's Hot Spot in Heart of San Diego.

SHERMAN'S in San Diego is the hot spot of the town and a well night incredible establishment. It is a dance hall in the heart of the city with 3,500 feet of dance floor, six bouncers and 11 separate bars at which some of the bartenders get $10 per day and others $11.

Waitresses who serve the food and drinks at the tables get $4.50 per day, regular salary and their tips which are said to run their income up to $75 and $90 per week. The place averages 30,000 customers per week, with 9,000 not uncommon through a Saturday night. It is said to gross around $55,000 per month and this with drinks selling at only 25 and 35 cents.

Customers are mainly soldiers, sailors, marines and defense workers, both male and female, though many civilians visit nightly. It is perhaps the current seat of the most extraordinary jitterbugging in the land. Some of the youngsters performing for their own pleasure could go on the stage tomorrow and knock theater-goers into the aisles. I saw one high-pockets of a defense worker with a long nose, not much chin and double-jointed legs that I would like to back against any jive artist in the world.

He danced in his shirt sleeves, mostly with a smiling little dame who must have been an artist on her own account, as I noticed that all the other crack performers, including a right shifty young bluejacket, were eager to take her on. But none of them could hold a candle to my skinny friend. He was a rug cutter from who-laid-the-chunk.

MORE THAN a year ago, before we got into the war, short, smiling, gray-haired Abe Aronson, who went to London for a short engagement as a saxophone player with Maurice and Lenore Hughes, the dancers, and remained 22 years, was wandering around southern California looking for an investment in the night club field. Someone advised him to take a look at San Diego. Aronson, I believe, still owns the fancy Embassy, Ciro's and the Four Hundred night clubs in London.

He finally bought Sherman's, originally a garage and later one of the biggest retail beer emporiums in the west and once known as the Hofbrau, from Sherman Haines and his wife, the owners. He then took in Charley Tucker, his London associate, Ned Stewart, a New Yorker, and Billy "Red" Mann, formerly one of the famous Yacht Club boys, spent $20,000 on improvements and thought he had a nice deal when the place was doing $28,000 per month. Tucker later disposed of his interest to the others.

The six bouncers may sound ominous, but they are largely for moral effect. Aronson told me the place has amazingly little trouble with its customers. He goes on the theory that trouble should be stopped before it starts. A big battery of flashlights operates from buttons posted all over the place and the instant a voice is raised in truculence, a bouncer is on the spot to quell any threatened uprising. The military and naval police wander in and out but Aronson said the customers themselves among the servicemen are his greatest help in keeping order.

THEY LIKE the place and want no beefs against it, he said. No minors are admitted, male or female. The liquor regulations with reference to service men are scrupulously observed. The management often sends men apt to be late returning to quarters home in taxis at its expense and even keeps a supply of navy on hand in case a service customer losses his lid, a bad mark against a man, especially in the navy.

Gus Arnheim's band, with Gus himself on the platform, was blasting away the night I was in Sherman's and you could scarcely move in the place. I am sure it is the high point of such-like revelry in the U. S. A. at this time. Or is jitterbugging revelry?

Life Expectancy Prolonged

As an average American, you can expect to live four years longer than you could ten years ago, nine years longer than the average Italian, and sixteen years longer than the average Japanese. As a matter of fact, it is unlikely that you will be outlived by the inhabitants of any other nation in the world, except New Zealand and Australia. For today the life expectancy of Americans has reached an all-time high of sixty-four years.

Attributing the gain to modern medicine and sanitation, Vice President Louis I. Dublin, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in an article in the October issue of the Reader's Digest, says that two years more will be added when the cancer problem is solved and control can be achieved over the heart and circulatory impairments of middle life.

What you eat may itself be an important influence on how long you will live. Research proves that the science of nutrition has already plunged the death rate for young children and infants down to 60 per cent less than in 192[illegible]. According to Professor Henry Sherman of Columbia, "a generous surplus of calcium results in better development of the young, a higher norm of adult health, and a longer lease on what we may call the prime of life."

Another promising factor is modern knowledge of the endocrine glands, proper treatment of which may lead to control of the process of growing old. Such treatments, known as hormone therapy, have already lengthened greatly the life expectancy of diabetics. Now, because of the known relationship between vitamins and hormones, Mr. Dublin expects that further work with both will result in an even greater life expectancy rate.

SMELTERS' STRIKE THREATENS LAYOFF

Ingot Shortage Looms at Aluminum Plant.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25—An impending ingot shortage at Aluminum Co. of America's plant in suburban Newburgh Heights was reported by a company spokesman today as 325 CIO smelter workers remained on strike.

The spokesman estimated that the present ingot supply would be exhausted within two or three days if the strike continued, forcing Alcoa's five Newburgh plants to suspend production of aircraft materials and parts.

Alex Balint, regional director of the CIO Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, said 70 striking smelter employes would return to work at 11 p. m. yesterday, but none reported.

The strike was started Tuesday midnight by 225 workers in Alcoa's "S" plant, and 100 other employes joined the walkout yesterday.

Noisy Propaganda Blast Follows Jap Sub Venture

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World war analyst, is being written in his absence for a few days by Glenn Babb.)

* * *

Tokyo and Berlin are making noisy propaganda today of the claim that a fraction of the Mikado's navy, size unstated, has managed to get into the Atlantic and that there has been an equally mysterious "German naval operation in the Indian ocean." The one specific claim is that a Japanese submarine has called at a German naval base—"in Europe," according to the Berlin version—and "again set sail for strategic waters."

This much may well be true. It would be no great feat for one of Japan's long-range submersibles, of which she has a dozen or more with cruising ranges of 10,000 miles and up, to start from Singapore, skirt the Cape of Good Hope at a safe distance and turn up somewhere in the South Atlantic.

But the military value of such a cruise would be negligible. Its primary purpose—assuming it actually was true—therefore must have been to create material for the propaganda blast loosed on the world's air waves this morning.

Japan, friendless in the midst of her broad "co-prosperity sphere" and separated by the greatest of continents and all the seven seas from her allies, must at times feel terribly alone.

And today's blare of trumpets about the submarine that sneaked into the Atlantic only serves to emphasize the strange nature of the German-Japanese alliance, between two powers that have no really effective channels for the direct exchange of aid.

There are, of course, channels of intercourse between Tokyo and Berlin. There is the radio. There remain a few neutral capitals where German, Italian and Japanese diplomats are free to meet, exchange information and ideas. The British government has reported that there is even a "trickle" of an exchange of prime war goods of small bulk among the axis partners. This perhaps is carried on by submarines, perhaps by the submarine of today's broadcasts, or even by surface ships that hug the Antarctic circle in skirting Africa or South America.

Of course, an axis juncture by way of the Middle East and India would change all that. Such a joining of forces is peril that can never be absent from our calculations. But the menace just now does not seem immediate. For the present we can afford to let Tokyo and Berlin exult over their naval contacts in the Atlantic.

KIDNAP FUGITIVE CAPTURED BY FBI

By The Associated Press

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Sept. 25—A fugitive who kidnaped the wife of a prison official in making his escape with a companion 10 days ago from the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, O., was captured today by FBI agents on a Williamson street.

The fugitive, identified as Jack H. Triplett Jr., 20, of Corona, Letcher county, Ky., has been placed in the Logan jail.

Triplett and William Cole, 17, of Willimantic, Conn., abducted the wife of Chief Clerk R. W. Meier and fled in her car Sept. 16. Cole was captured after Mrs. Meier grabbed the steering wheel and turned the auto into a curb at Ashland, Ky.

Triplett slipped through a cordon of 300 local and federal officials and volunteers by taking to the hills. Cole is being held at Ashland and federal charges of kidnaping have been filed against both.

Triplett was sighted by FBI agents walking in Williamson early this morning. He attempted to flee but was taken into custoday after a short chase.

Mrs. Meier suffered no ill effect of her kidnaping although the pair had bound her hands and feet and placed her in the car trunk for an hour and a half. She said she pretended to be unconscious, which inducted the youths to place her in the front seat of the car from which point she was able to grab the steering wheel.

Triplett and Cole were trusties at the Ohio institution where they both were serving two-year sentences for automobile theft. Triplett was to have been released September 30, and Cole would have been freed in a short time, having been granted a parole.

WPB Asks All Citizens To Act as Scrap Scouts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—The war production board today called upon all citizens to act as "salvage scouts," to search for and report idle iron and steel structures and any large amounts of abandoned machinery and equipment.

Lessing J. Rosenwald, director of WPB's conservation division, said there was a "vast amount of useful metal, idle and unused in all parts of the nation."

Any person who knows of idle metal in any form was requested to send the information, including the location and, if possible the ownership of the equipment, to the special projects salvage committee of WPB in Washington.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF CROPS HINTED

Some May Be Reduced or Eliminated Entirely.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Further tightening of the farm labor supply situation, as foreseen by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, may necessitate government action to reduce, or omit entirely, the production of foods that require much labor and yet have little caloric value.

Wickard and his aids, presently formulating 1943 food production plans, are known to be considering recommendations for sharp reductions in several foods to permit available labor to be used in the production of other commodities richer in food value.

Aside from the important question of vitamins, there is a wide variation in the food values obtained from a given amount of labor used in producing various commodities.

Agriculture department nutritionists say, for example, that one hour of labor spent on pork production will return from four to 16 times as many calories as an hour spent on poultry, eggs, milk, lamb or beef. This explains why the department is encouraging a greater production of hogs.

Cuba is admitting duty and tax free scientific and industrial instruments and machinery imported to help develop production of articles not previously produced in Cuba.

WAR PLANT PLAYERS REHEARSALS PUSHED

Cast Preparing for Premier Production Oct. 21.

Rehearsals are in full swing for the presentation of "Black Ace," the premier production of the Powder Keg Players at the Scioto Ordnance Plant, on Wednesday night, Oct. 21 at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school.

The cast rehearsed the first act without their script Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. and Director Dolph Veatch expressed himself as being highly pleased with the work of the performers. "Everything was right on the beam," he said today. At tonight's rehearsal, set for 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A., the cast will concentrate on the second act.

Henderson's Help Asked To Stop Farm Bloc Drive

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Farm bloc defections spurred the senate leadership today to call for help from Price Administrator Leon Henderson in an effort to placate agriculture's demands for higher food prices.

Fighting an uphill battle, administration leaders decided to ask Henderson to outline the actions he would take if congress should adopt a compromise amendment to the anti-inflation bill.

The amendment would direct President Roosevelt to lift farm price ceilings where they did not reflect increased labor and other costs to producers. It was offered by Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky as a substitute for a proposal by Senators Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, and Hatch, Democrat of New Mexico, to move the parity standard upward by making farm labor costs an integral part of its base.

Under the bill passed by the house and now pending before the senate, which directs President Roosevelt to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at Sept. 15 levels, so far as practical, no ceiling would be placed on farm products below parity.

Since it would be Henderson who actually would administer the price controls under the bill, Senator Nye, Republican of North Dakota, said he and others from farm states would feel more disposed to consider a compromise if they knew what Henderson would do if it were adopted.

FOUR ACCIDENTS REPORTED IN MARION

Autos Damaged in Series of Minor Collisions.

Robert Yazel, 19, of 912 Uncapher avenue and Dorothy Patterson, 25, of Prospect were drivers of cars which figured in one of four minor traffic accidents reported by city police Thursday. The autos collided at 3:55 p. m. on West Center street in front of Central Junior High school.

A car driven by William Holtz, 71, of near Tiffin and another driven by Norman S. Rittenhouse, 63, of near Marion were involved in a slight collision at North Main and Mill streets at 10:27 a. m. Thursday.

A truck owned by the C. & O. Coal Co. and driven by Alfred Sams of 944 Kenton avenue collided with a passenger car driven by Lowell R. Wittibslager, 21, of 605 Wood street. Both vehicles were slightly damaged.

The only other accident involved cars driven by Claude Hill, 37, of near Cardington and Harvey Tanner, 19, of near Richwood. The accident occurred at 4:30 p. m. at East George and Jefferson streets.

GEN. WAINWRIGHT IS JAP PRISONER

6,000 Other Americans Held in Philippines.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and an estimated 6,000 other American defenders of Bataan and Corregidor were reported today to be war captives of the Japanese in a prison camp at Tarlac, north of Manila, in the Philippines.

A partial list of about 200 prisoners, compiled from information furnished by some of the small number of persons permitted to leave Manila, also contained the names of four other American and Filipino army general officers.

General Wainwright, commander of the Philippine forces after Gen. Douglas MacArthur was ordered to Australia, was taken with the fall of Corregidor on May 6. His fate and that of more than 60,000 others had reported on Bataan and Corregidor has since been in doubt.

Those in the partial list of prisoners included Maj. Gen. William F. Sharp, Monkton, Md., commander of the American-Filipino forces on the southern island of Mindanao; Brig. Generals Lewis C. Beebe, a native of Ashton, Ia.; Clinton A. Pierce, Sierra Madre, Calif.; and Fidel V. Segundo, of the Philippine army.

Willkie Near Front On Trip from Moscow

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Sept. 25—Wendell L. Willkie returned to Moscow today from a 14-hour jeep car trip to the German-Russian front which took him well within earshot of duelling artillery. With Lieut. Gen. Lilyushenko of the Red army and a party of Americans, Willkie rode for miles across seas of mud. The soldiers asked him, as had Moscow workers, when the United State and Britain would establish a second front, he said.

Daughters of Isabella Social Season Opened

The first social meeting of the fall and winter season for members of Our Lady of Victory Circle, Daughters of Isabella, was held Wednesday night in the Knights of Columbus hall. In a short business session plans were made to sponsor a first aid class for members of the circle. Cards were played, awards going to Miss Mae Hannegan, contract, Miss Valeska Rush, auction and Mrs. Ella Andrews, euchre. Arrangements for the affair were in charge of Mrs Rozella Cochran, chairman, Miss Josephine Wood, Miss Eleanor Bookmeyer, Miss Eloise Tobin and Mrs. Dorothy Duehren.

Recent Bride Honored at Shower in Crestline

CRESTLINE, Sept. 25—Mrs. Richard Helfrich and Miss Vivian Emmer entertained at the former's home Wednesday night for Mrs. Jay Webster, formerly Harriett McCune, who was recently married. Lucky 50 was the diversion and prizes awarded to Miss Alverda Deems and Miss Blanche Farber were presented the honor guest. Lunch was served at small tables. A shower of bath towels were presented Mrs. Webster. At the close of the evening her husband arrived on nine-day furlough from Great Lakes Naval station and they left for a wedding trip Friday.

Sorority Has Army Men As Guests at Dinner and Dance

MEMBERS of the second battalion of the 333rd Engineers regiment were guests of the Beta chapter of the Gradale sorority last evening at a buffet dinner and dance at the Y. M. C. A.

When each guest arrived he drew a slip on which was the name of a popular song which he must sing. By finding the girl who was singing the same song, the soldiers found their dinner partners.

The dessert was cakes with the engineers insignia on them and ice cream with the Gradale emblem on it. After dinner Jayne [illegible] presented her pupils in a revue and Mary Lou Cornelius sang. John Kessler played the accompaniment and later entertained with piano solos and music for community singing.

The hall was decorated with red, white and blue streamers and flags. Red, white and blue candles with candy kisses wrapped in the same colored paper were hung on cords from the candles.

Mrs. John Ganoe, Mrs. Lorah Shurz and Mrs. Marion Mewhorter assisted in serving. Assisting Miss Betty Ganoe, social chairman, were Miss Maxine Schlagenhauf, Miss Marjorie Bindley and Miss Peg Davisson. Members of the Alpha chapter of the sorority were guests of the Beta chapter.

Weddings

Mrs. Josephine Lusch of 368 South Main street is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Flora Mae, to Robert Rease, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rease of 276 Cass avenue. The marriage took place at Russell, Ky., on Monday. Attendants were Miss Evelyn Isett, Leonard Cole and Robert Orr, all of Marion. Rev. R. L. Stevens performed the ceremony. The bridegroom is employed in the auto repair shop of his father located at the rear of 227 North Main street.

Farewell Party Held for Teachers at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 25—A Thursday luncheon brought together the members of the Galion senior high school faculty for their first social gathering of the year on the occasion of a farewell party for Ruthanna Maxwell, Spanish instructor who leaves Galion Friday. The luncheon, which was held in the home economics room was in charge of Helen Smith, and served by a group of home economics girls.

General arrangement for the gathering were in charge of the social committee composed of W. L. Swick, A. B. Cushman, Gertrude Mann and Janet Richardson. Serving as toastmaster was L. W. Babb who introduced M. A. Povenmire, superintendent and also made the gift presentation to Miss Maxwell. Miss Maxwell will leave her home in Findlay about Oct. 1 for Northampton, Mass., where she will enter officers' training in the WAVES.

Harding 11 Ready To Open with Columbus West Tonight

To Shoot Everything To Protect Great 1941 Record.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

INAUGURATING Marion's 1942 football season, the Harding Presidents tackle a once-beaten Columbus West tonight at 8:30 under the lights at Harding stadium.

Coach Victor Dorris, who replaces William O. "Bill" Williams as Harding head coach, indicated last night that his charges were keyed for the game. "We intend to shoot everything at West in an effort to start the season on the right side of the ledger. I feel that every boy on the squad realizes that we are in for a tough battle, despite the fact that we are favored to win," Coach Dorris said.

It was gathered from Coach Dorris' words, "we'll shoot everything," that this year's team would be making effort to extend the undefeated-unscored on record of a miraculous 1941 squad. A dozen stars of this great team were lost through graduation and the obstacles in way of a second near perfect record are unsurmountable. Last year's team racked six victories in tallying 325 points to the opponents' 0. Two scoreless ties marred an otherwise perfect slate.

A 33-0 defeat at the hands of a powerful Newark Wildcat eleven last Friday, will make Columbus West extremely tough. They will be eager to erase the early setback. During practice sessions Coach Dorris has, above all, instilled this one thought in the minds of the 30-odd members of the varsity squad.

Drill Under Lights

Winding up pre-season practice last night, Coach Dorris and Assistant Coach Joe Petrich, former Edison Junior High mentor, conducted an eleventh hour clinic under the lights of the stadium field. Punting, passing, signal calling and football fundamentals came in for strong emphasis during the hour-long drill.

Earlier this week, the Harding coaching staff cancelled contact

ALL SOPHOMORE FINALS

By The Associated Press

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—When Notre Dame held its annual golf tournament recently it came up with an all-sophomore—and all-Irish—final. Dave Sullivan of Dedham, Mass., won the title over Joe Moore of Chicago, 5 and 4. The 36-hole match was played in a heavy rain.

SERVICE TEAM WILL OUTWEIGH BUCKEYES 20 POUNDS PER MAN

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25—A bunch of downtown coaches "sat in" this week as Coach Paul E. Brown put his Ohio State university footballers through their practice paces, and after being mystified by some gridiron legerdemain one turned to his mates and declared:

"Why, that razzle-dazzle stuff Francis Schmidt introduced up here will seem like straight football when this time really gets going."

Brown, facing a 10-game schedule with one of the lightest—and fastest—teams in Buckeye history, admitted "we have been loosening up our attack quite a bit, trying to fit the offense to the material at hand."

Denies Wide Open Charge

However, the Buck mentor denied his assault maneuvers would be wide open.

"We are basing our attack on the soundest of football traditions," he declared. "But the fact that we are concentrating on basic football is the big reason our 'fancy stuff' should work, should we be compelled to use it."

Ohio launches its campaign tomorrow by battling the service team from Fort Knox — a club which will outweigh the Bucks about 20 pounds per man.

"These Fort Knox boys are mature," Brown said. "The youngest fellow on the squad is 23 years old, while our squad averages 19½ years. That age edge gives the soldiers a decided advantage, especially on the defensive."

Brown will start two seniors, two sophomores and seven juniors. One junior started the campaign as a fourth-string left end.

Horace Gillom, giant Massillon Negro, had the end job tucked away until he flunked out of school. Then John White of River Rouge, Mich., moved in, only to suffer a shoulder injury which shelved him for weeks, Dante Lavelli of Hudson, O., taking over. Last week Lavelli pulled up with a "charley horse," so Don Steinberg of Toledo gets the starting call.

With eight new starters in the line-up, the Bucks lack age, weight and experience, but Brown admits they've picked up speed in each of the positions filled by newcomers. And on that added speed he pins his

Cards in Position To Clinch National League Baseball Title Either Today or Saturday

Mort Cooper Hurls Two-Hitter as St. Louis Smothers Reds, 6-0.

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals, close to clinching the National league pennant, are likely to be the shortest priced entry the senior circuit has sent against the New York Yankees in many years simply because of one man—Mort Cooper.

The bettors tentatively are calling 10 to 7 against the Cardinals in the World series and this is quite a tribute to the big righthanded pitcher who they figure might handcuff the world champions.

Cooper has shown he is capable of beating just about any club in baseball any time his teammates get him one run. Yesterday he whitewashed the Cincinnati Reds 6-0 to assure the Cardinals of at least a tie for the pennant and put them in a position to clinch it today or tomorrow.

It was Cooper's 22nd victory against seven defeats and he allowed only two hits. It also was Cooper's tenth shut out, not only the best mark of any pitcher in the major leagues this year, but the best of any hurler since Carl Hubbell pitched ten scoreless games for the New York Giants in 1933.

Today, the Dodgers were in danger of marking the anniversary of last year's pennant-clinching by being eliminated from the race. They came up against the Braves for the last time and a defeat would knock them out of even a chance to tie. They clinched the flag a year ago today.

Brooklyn Dodgers Keep Apace by Edging Boston Braves, 5-3.

The Dodgers downed Boston 5-3 yesterday by coming from behind with four runs in the sixth inning after spotting the Braves three runs on four hits and three errors in the third frame.

In the only other National league activity yesterday the Phils and New York Giants divided a double-header. Bill Lohrman pitched New York to victory in the first game, 8-0, with a sturdy four-hit performance.

In the night cap the Giants were held to four hits by John Podgajny and George Hennessy and beaten 3-2.

The American league competition was limited to one double-header which the White Sox took from Cleveland 3-1 and 4-2 to push the Indians within half a game of dropping out of the first division.

SYRACUSE DEFEATS RED BIRDS, 6 TO 1

Take Lead in Little World Series Championship.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25 — A couple of pretty fair hurlers were ticketed to take the mound tonight in the second game of the 25th junior world series — in which the Syracuse Chiefs of the International loop took a one-up edge last night, 6 to 1, over the defending champion Columbus Red Birds of the American association.

Skipper Jewel Ens of the Chiefs, hoping to make it two straight before the clubs depart for Syracuse for the next three contests, decided to send Charley (Red) Barrett, 180-pound righthander, to the hill, while Manager Eddie Dyer of the Birds countered with Harry Brecheen, brilliant left-hander.

Barrett won 20 and lost 12 during the current campaign, while Brecheen, in winning 19 and losing ten, led the association in strike-outs with 154.

The Birds used three hurlers last night in a vain attempt to halt the Chiefs, while Clayton Lambert, six-foot two-inch Syracuse ace, hand-cuffed the local lads with five hits.

Syracuse blasted big Bill Crouch from the hill in the first frame, with a four-hit, three-run barrage from which the Birds never recovered. The Chiefs kept pecking at relief hurlers Francis (Red) Barrett and Kenny Burkhart, for single runs in the second, seventh and eighth frames. Columbus' lone threat was in the seventh when two walks and a pair of infield outs produced the lone Red Bird run.

After the Syracuse trip, the clubs will return to Columbus, if necessary, in their best-of-seven series.

Cuba established a new high record by exporting 7,056,913 kilograms of condensed milk last year, more than three times as much as in the previous year, shipments going to about 25 countries.

Chooses Fighting Irish To Stop Wisconsin, Big Ten Dark Horse.

By HERB BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—The annual game of blind man's buff starts for all football guessers this week.

Tremendous shifts in manpower have occurred since last fall with varsity football players by the hundreds and thousands now in the armed services. Football form, uncertain under normal circumstances, probably will be close to non-existent.

Remembering that it's all in fun, here are the guesses for the first big week-end program:

Notre Dame-Wisconsin: Angelo Bertelli still is operating at the old Notre Dame stand and so are a flock of other veterans. This may be one fo the really strong college teams of the year. Wisconsin, touted as Big Ten dark-horse, was no ball of fire against Camp Grant. The nod goes to Notre Dame.

Penn-Georgia Naval: Only experience, bitterly earned, will tell just how strong these pre-flight school teams are going to be. The word is that Georgia's varsity has handled the Georgia Naval Cadets prettily easily in practice. This vote goes to Penn, Ivy league favorite.

Harvard-North Carolina Naval: Harvard will have one of the greenest teams in history. North Carolina Cadets.

Northwestern-Iowa Naval: This may turn out to be one of the great games of the day. In view of Iowa Naval's 61-0 rout of Kansas last week—Iowa Naval.

Louisiana State-Texas A. and M: The Aggies are being picked to finish 1-2 in the Southwest conference and get the nod in this one.

Southern California - Tulane. What's a guess between friends? Southern California.

South Carolina-Tennessee: May be close but Tennessee looks like a winner.

Purdue - Fordham: The Rams lost their head coach, Jimmy Crowley, to the navy along with not a few veterans but until proved wrong, Fordham.

California-St. Mary's. The boys say that California is the team to beat in the far west. Therefore, California.

Michigan - Great Lakes: Absolutely a stab in the dark. Tom Kuzma and Michigan.

Ohio State - Fort Knox: Ditto. Ohio State.

Coon Hunters Plan Event on Sunday

GALION, Sept. 25 — The Crawford County Coon Hunters' Association will sponsor a fall chase to be held Sunday at the Mrs. Bell Shook farm on State Route 19, half way between Galion and Bucyrus. R. W. Stall, president of the association, said that this chase will probably be the last chase for the duration of the war.

In the past four years the association has ranked high among similar organizations in the state in their record of game restocking. They have released 500 coon and 150 pheasants as a result of their proceeds from sponsored coon hunts.

JACOBS SURPRISED ABOUT STIR OVER LOUIS-CONN PLANS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — Mike Jacobs doesn't know what War Secretary Stimson is investigating about the Joe Louis-Billy Conn bout, but there's been so much hollering over $94,000 the two boxers owe him, Mike wonders if they realize that fighters depend on promoters for money to keep going between fights.

Stimson announced his investigation in Washington yesterday saying he was "shocked over details of the arrangement for the Oct. 12 fight in Yankee Stadium.

One "detail" of the fight is that the war department originally announced it as 100 per cent for army emergency relief although several days earlier a representative of the war department had seen Louis at Fort Riley, Kas., and discussed with him payment of certain of his debts from the bout.

Another "detail" is that a total of $135,451.53 is to be taken from the gate to pay debts listed against Louis and Conn. Of this sum, Mike says $94,305.50 is owed him—$59,805.50 by Louis and $34,500 by Billy. The other $41,146.03 is owed by Louis to John Roxborough, one of his co-managers.

While officials handling the bout said today that they didn't believe the fight would be called off, Jacobs pointed out that there's nothing unusual about fighters owing promoters sizeable chunks, especially when the fighters are the heavyweight champion and his No. 1 challenger.

"Fighters have to go to someone for money between fights," he explained. "So they ask a promoter for an advance on the next fight. Why, right now there's about $150,000 outstanding on my books—all money advanced to various fighters. They'll pay it back as soon as they get

LITTLE RIO GRANDE KEEPS ON LOSING

Gridders Defeated, Adding to Record Begun in 1937.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept 25—The losing streak of Little Rio Grande college down in the Gallia county hills is still intact and growing steadily

Not since mid-season in 1937 have the Redmen won a football game, and they took no chances on breaking the long string last night.

They bowed 47 to 0, to West Virginia Institute of Technology at Montgomery, W Va A week ago Rio Grande dropped a 25 to 0 verdict to Louisville university

Until they upset the dope last year by scoring three touchdowns, the Rio Grandes had two seasons of scoreless endeavor behind them Now they're off on another campaign in which touchdowns are lacking

The remainder of the week-end slate involving Buckeye college squads is expected to bring about a bit more competition than the Redmen have been able to offer

Today's schedule calls for an afternoon contest between Defiance and Hillsdale, Mich, and these night games Ohio Northern at Findlay, Western Reserve at Youngstown, U of Kentucky at Xavier, Muskingum at Akron, Bluffton at Mount Union

Saturday brings up Ohio State university's opener against Fort Knox Ohio conference games between Otterbein and Heidelberg John Carroll and Wooster, and Kent State and Toledo Other Saturday games are Miami Naval Training Station at Bowling Green Hiram at Baldwin Wallace Alabama A & M at Wilberforce, Louisville U vs Cincinnati, Albion vs Ohio Wesleyan, Western Michigan at Dayton and Centre at Miami.

Badger Star Elected Fort Knox Captain

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25—Sergt Frank J Lopp, 220 pounds of sheer brawn, newly elected captain of the army's Fort Knox gridiron contingent, leads his husky "Armoraiders" into the Ohio capital today for Saturday's curtain raiser with Ohio State university's speedy Bucks.

Lopp a tackle who played two years under Coach Harry Stuhldreher at the University of Wisconsin, was elected pilot of the "Armoraiders" yesterday,

Coach Joe Bach said his Fort Knox starting line-up would include 10 former college players and one ex-high school gridder.

Non-Operating Rail Employes Ask Raise

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Railroad management and labor sources which declined to be quoted reported that 15 brotherhoods of non-operating employes had notified the carriers of demands for a 20-cent an hour wage increase with the minimum of 70 cents an hour, and a closed shop.

The sources said railroad operators employing members of the brotherhoods were being served with notices of the demands at their executive offices throughout the nation today.

The non-operating brotherhoods unions of personnel such as clerks, telegraphers and signalmen, represent more than 900 000 workers

British Lose 2 Warships in Russia-Bound Convoy

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept 25—The British lost the destroyer Somali and the minesweeper Leda in a convoy homeward bound from Russia after getting "the great majority" of the laden merchantmen through to Soviet northern ports, the admiralty disclosed today in a complete account of the sea struggle in the Arctic ocean.

Against the allied losses, the admiralty announced that 40 German planes were blasted from the sky, two U-boats were destroyed and four others damaged seriously during the inward and outward passages of the convoy by anti-aircraft fire and carrier-borne naval planes

CLUB HEARS TALK ON TAXES

County Auditor Speaks at Luncheon of Marion Kiwanis Club.

Speaking before the Kiwanis club Thursday on "Taxation," County Auditor Harry V. Mounts asserted that "Americans in the past, have been a fortunate people as far as taxation is concerned."

"Our taxes, in comparison with other countries of the world, have been light. So light, in fact, that many people were not conscious that they were contributing to the cost of government, especially local government, he explained

In the light of services rendered, Mr Mounts said, local taxes are exceptionally low. Fine schools, health, police and fire protection, improved streets and roads city and county courts and scores of other governmental services are all supported directly from local taxation.

While local taxes have maintained and will undoubtedly continue to maintain a set scale national taxes will increase by leaps and bounds, he pointed out Rather than lose the war we as taxpayers, are cheerfully assuming this added expense he said

Change in Taxation

During the past quarter of a century we have witnessed a marked change in methods of taxation The state and national governments have reached out in local affairs, especially where either state or local funds are allocated to local governmental enterprise In this manner the state and federal governments dictate local policy. This is a bad feature in a democracy as it destroys government by the people, he declared

Mr. Mounts briefly outlined the method used in Ohio to determine the amount of tax paid on real estate and personal property

He said: Section 5548 of the General Code of Ohio imposes upon the auditor in each county the duty to appraise every parcel of land and the buildings located on them and, after setting the value present it to the tax commission of Ohio Before valuation is placed in the hands of the tax commission it must be reviewed and approved by the county board of revision composed of the county auditor, county treasurer and chairman of the board of county commissioners

To make the necessary appraisals the county auditor is empowered to appoint as many deputies as he deems necessary to complete the tremendous task In Marion county alone there are more than 2 200 tracts or parcels of land

Tax Rates Limited

The valuations as finally fixed for taxation are then assembled according to taxing districts and after the budget requests have been presented, the tax rates are made according to requirements of the taxing districts as set forth in the budget of that district The rates must be within the 10-mill limitation or within any additional levy as voted by the people

Prior to 1934 the limitation was 15 mills, but in 1934 the state constitution was changed, setting 10 mills as the new limitation All taxes [illegible] to the [illegible] must be [illegible] of [illegible]

Regarding [illegible] taxes, Mr Mounts said all persons [illegible] taxable personal property [illegible] before the county [illegible] to declare it for taxation [illegible] on Jan 1. These declarations must be made each year between [illegible] and March [illegible] the real estate [illegible] likewise [illegible] to taxing districts.

Abstracts are then made of both real estate and personal property from the tax duplicate which shows total valuation and total amount of tax charges on each district. This [illegible] the total tax charge

Collected by Treasurer

Collection of taxes is handled through the county treasurer office and after the collection the treasurer must [illegible] to the auditor Settlements to each taxing district are then made by the auditor on the basis of the rates and budgets previously submitted by each district

Mr Mounts exhibited a chart showing the tax rate of the city of Marion broken down according to millage both inside and outside the 10 mill limitation

After concluding the talk he conducted a question answer period on different phases of taxation

GRAIN PRICES SHOW LITTLE CHANGE TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—Grain prices held steady today, hovering near previous closing figures despite fractional losses early in the session, as the market awaited development of a definite farm price control formula

Washington reports that a show-down on provisions of legislation pending in congress may be postponed until next week left traders with little incentive for market action Indications that a compromise may be worked out that would leave the President with considerable leeway in establishing ceilings for farm prices caused some evening-up of accounts, particularly by dealers who were buyers earlier in the week work for a simple form of top football This precaution was taken to insure against further injuries Fritz Ruhl, tabbed to be Coach Dorris' choice at right halfback is not expected to be available for tonight's game. A leg injury, suffered several days ago, will keep him on the sidelines

Senior Stu Young will probably be Coach Dorris' choice to fill Ruhl's post.

Back Lawrence Daley and Lineman Frank Louck both who have been hampered by charley horses this week, will be ready for tonight's game.

One Junior To Start

Senior Don Benedict will start at the right flank. Opposite Kay at right tackle will be 190-pound Charles Fazio. Bob Dixon on left side and Marion Price on the right side will be the starting guards Price will be the only junior in the starting line-up.

The starting backfield, while not definite, will probably consist of Calvin Scott at quarter, Jenkins at left half, Young at right half and Harvey at fullback.

Starting time of tonight's game, and all future home games, has been set at 8:30, giving merchants, shop workers and Friday night shoppers a chance to see the game.

The city's new curfew ordinance barring unchaperoned children from the city streets after 10 p. m. has been lifted by Chief of Police William E. Marks and Safety-Service Director C. C. Caldwell to permit children of junior high school age to attend the game.

Principal O. H. P. Snyder of Harding said that all junior high school pupils attending tonight's game, as well as later games, must return to their homes immediately after the game.

PROFIT TAKING STALLS RALLY

Traders Unable To Resist Cashing in on Recent Stock Advances.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—Stock market followers were unable to resist the temptation to cash in some of their profits on the three-session rally today and the forward push stalled to a certain extent.

While small advances were widely distributed in narrow early dealings, the pace soon slowed, and the best that could be said of the list was that it was irregularly higher.

Word that congress and the administration might work out a compromise on wage-price legislation tended to cool the market's inflation temperature a bit. The good war news from Russia, however, remained as a steadying incentive

A number of stocks posted new tops for the year or longer before slipping. Holding the [illegible] were General Motors, Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, Kennecott and Sperry. Intermittent laggards included Union Pacific, Youngstown Sheet, American Telephone and Westinghouse.

Progressive Deafness

The commonest form of deafness occurs to people in middle age and in the declining years of life. It is of very gradual onset and perhaps the most serious feature of the condition is that they do not realize what is happening to them.

Almost without exception they think in the early stages that it is not going to get any worse. Consequently they do not seek treatment and as it does get worse they become increasingly melancholy.

Nothing could better illustrate this fact than the famous example we have on record in literature in the case of Lord Chesterfield. In 1751 he wrote—"I am deaf and consequently alone, but I am less dejected than most people in my situation would be." But six years later he writes in a tone of real despondency. "My deafness is extremely increased and daily increasing and cuts me wholly off from the society of others, and my other complaints deny me the society of myself."

There is a real lesson in this, which is that the principal treatment of this form of deafness is psychological. There is very little that the ear specialist can do for progressive catarrhal deafness. He can give some treatments designed to break up adhesions. There is an operation he can do, but it is not always successful. And he can arrange for hearing aids. But that is all he can do.

But the deaf person always has hope that his hearing is going to be completely restored. Or that the slight deafness in the beginning will be stationary. And the consequence is that he does not learn lip reading during the years when there is enough hearing left so that he can understand the lessons.

Learning lip reading does not come easy to those of years beyond childhood and adolescence, and it takes time. But if people would only understand that half their happiness will come from knowing it, they would try harder.

It is certainly not a cheerful subject, but the facts of life are facts and they do not change just because we want them to. I think it better to face the realities, and the doctor would be a shameless doctor who did not make the beginning deaf person face the truth.

There are a few advantages to being deaf. Some occupations, such as bookkeeping and operating a machine, can be done by a deaf person even better than by one with good hearing; he has fewer distractions. Deafness increases the acuity of the other senses, and when watching an expert lip reader perform, you realize that there is a keenness of visual perception which has been augmented by the handicap of poor hearing.

By all odds the worst feature of deafness so far as it affects personality is that the deaf person will not confess his disability either to his friends or to himself. The blind person is obviously blind and has to admit it. But the deaf person looks like everybody else and thinks he can get away with it — to his sorrow and tragedy.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"AT LEAST," I told Lillian, "until Marion is safely back with us, and the members of the gang hunting for Jack and the secret of his cryptograms have all been dealt with as they deserve."

"Does Carolyn know what happened to the young man?" Lillian asked, then answered her own query. "But, of course, she can't, or she wouldn't be making such frantic efforts to find him.

"And now, Madge, don't be afraid for me or of what I may do. I'm myself again. Please send Harry in. I don't care what you do with Carolyn, only get her out of my sight."

"I'll see that she's out of the house as soon as I get hold of my father and find out what he wants me to do," I said. "But there are two favors I'd like to ask of you."

"You've only to name them," she said, with a wan smile.

"First, may Ronald stay here? I don't think it would be pleasant for him to listen to my father's interrogation of his sister."

"Of course he may stay. Do you think he will want to?"

"I don't think it will matter what he wishes," I said. "He is under Father's orders, and I am sure Father won't want him to come with us.

"Now the other favor is this: Can you and Harry get along without Miss Whitlock for a few hours—perhaps longer?"

"Surely," she said heartily. "We can take care of each other, and I can see where you will need her in dealing with Carolyn."

"Thank you," I said, "and now I'll be running along. Good-bye, and keep up your courage, girl. You can be sure Marion is safe as long as the gangsters can't get hold of Jack Bickett. And while I don't know where Jack is, I'm sure my father does, and that he is safe from attack."

"You blessed comforter," she murmured as I left her.

Then I rushed back to Harry and Dicky.

"Is Lillian all right?" the big man demanded.

"Very much so," I returned. "Now she is completely convinced of Carolyn's treachery, and asks only that the girl be kept out of her sight."

"I knew you'd turn the trick, Lady Fair," Harry Underwood said, and Dicky's eyes telegraphed approval.

"And now what's the program?" Dicky said. "You're the general. Give us our orders."

"Lillian wants to see you, Harry," I said, "and when Ronald comes out will you tell him my father wishes him to stay here and rest until he is sent for."

"Ah-h!" Dicky said. "I can see where I'm going to be in on that third degree for little Carol."

"Perhaps," I told him, as Harry hurried away. "But first, I want you to go to a pay station where calls can't be traced, and ask Father to hurry over here."

"I'm flying to obey your orders," he said. "I take time off to kiss you only so you won't think I'm sore at you."

He kissed me expertly and murmured: "I really wanted a kiss, besides," then hurried out.

I went upstairs and knocked at the door where I had left Miss Whitlock and Carolyn. The nurse opened it a mere crack.

Carolyn was sitting in a big chair at the other side of the room, apparently quiescent, but Miss Whitlock, even when opening the door, did not take her eyes from the girl.

"Mrs. Underwood says she can spare you to us for a little while, if you don't mind," I said.

"As a jailer for me, I suppose," Carolyn said, with venom in her voice.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Sept. 26

It may be possible to make this a moderately pleasant and profitable day by the exercise of individual resistance to many temptations to lavish and unjustified expenditures or extravagances. Other forms of indulgence, excess and prodigality in both business and personal life may exact heavy penalties. Deception, fraud, misrepresentation, gambling and speculation or legal entanglements may be indicated, especially for young and unwary.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year calling for the utmost prudence, moderation and integrity in all forms of expression. Youthful indiscretions are hinted at. Business irregularities, together with strong urges to self-indulgence, extravagance and excesses of all kinds, may incite to dangerous and regrettable situations, with difficult penalties. Sign papers cautiously. Shun legal entanglements.

A child born on this day may need rigid training and discipline to direct its impulses and desires into worthy, useful and laudable pathways in life. Its tendency may be to extravagance.
